

6.1

3. I talked with Frank Schroeder, of the staff of the Senate Immigration Subcommittee, and he informs me that the task force is continuing to study the Guatemalan and Latin American situation through the medium of staff conferences rather than sworn testimony. They are anxious to do nothing to upset the apple cart at this time. Mr. Schroeder will continue to pass on to me what he considers to be pertinent information which would be helpful to us. He has urged me very strongly to suggest that we have nothing further to do with [redacted] as additional information which the Subcommittee has recently received indicates that they are not very worthy characters and, while not Communists, are at least opportunists. He claims that he has also received information concerning the lack of effectiveness of some of our agents in [redacted]. I have urged Mr. Schroeder to take all possible steps to make this information available to me on a very closely held basis so that we may examine it for possible action. 25 May 1954
